

Significant increase in interpretation services

In 2017, STAR Servicios Lingüísticos experienced a 60% increase in revenue for its simultaneous and consecutive interpretation services compared to the previous year.

According to Michael Scholand, CEO of STAR Servicios Lingüísticos, “interpretation has long been a part of our portfolio of services, but with the incorporation of an Account Manager for interpretation clients, business skyrocketed in 2017”.

"We offer significant added value to clients that require interpretation services, especially when it comes to big events", explains Anastasia Konovalova, who is responsible for managing interpretation services at the Catalan company. “We have a large database of proven and high-quality interpreters for all languages, who cover a wide range of subject areas. We also manage the entire planning and management process, which is ideal for clients who organise meetings, conferences or congresses with a high number of attendees and multiple language combinations. We select and hire interpreters, organise accommodation and transport, and also manage the technical equipment required for the interpretation (booths or mobile devices), so that all attendees can enjoy the speaker’s words in their own language. Another service that we provide that is increasingly requested by clients is video and audio recording of the interpretation, as well as the subsequent subtitling of conferences or talks”, concludes Anastasia.
